

Senior Lecturer in Public health science, PAR 2018/363

Göteborgs universitet möter samhällets utmaningar med mångsidig kunskap. 38 000 studenter och 6 000 medarbetare gör universitetet till en stor och inspirerande arbetsplats. Stark forskning och attraktiva utbildningar lockar forskare och studenter från hela världen. Med ny kunskap och nya perspektiv bidrar Göteborgs universitet till en bättre framtid.

The position is placed at the Institute of Medicine, Section of Social Medicine and Epidemiology. The Section is responsible for the bachelor- and masterprograms in Public Health Sciences, the master program in Global Health and teaching in Social Medicine and Community Pharmacy. The research is focused at health related life style factor and life course perspective and the importance of social structures and factors for health and illness. The Section for Social Medicine and Epidemiology is a cross professional and cross disciplinary environment. We combine good student centered education with a good academic work environment. www.epso.gu.se

Subject area

Public health science

Subject area description

Public Health Science concerns population health at local, national and international levels. Factors contributing to the development of health in society such as poverty, social inequalities, gender, ethnicity and life style are focused as is the importance of preventive and health promoting interventions.

Job assignments

The position include teaching and being responsible for courses including planning, organising and administrating courses in team with other teachers mainly in bachelor and masters program in public and global health. Teaching at courses other than those one is responsible for is part of the work. Furthermore common tasks in the program, contacts with student, development work and collaboration with relevant actors within and outside academia are part of the work.

Interprofessional learning between different programs and teaching at the bachelor level at other programs in the Sahlgrenska Academy can be included as well.

Eligibility

PhD in a relevant discipline and documented pedagogic skills.

Assessment

In the first place pedagogical competence. In the second place scientific competence. Administrative competence and ability to collaborate will be taken into consideration. Experience of teaching in topics relevant for the position is a merit. Pedagogical education for university teaching is a merit.

Employment

The employment is a full time temporary post for up to 2 years and is located at The Institute of Medicine.

For further information:

Gunnel Hensing, Section head, +46 76 618 68 62, gunnel.hensing@gu.se

Gunilla Priebe, Director of studies, +46 76 618 68 64

Unions

Union representatives at the University of Gothenburg:

http://www.gu.se/english/about_the_university/job-opportunities/union-representatives

How to apply

In order to apply for a position at the University of Gothenburg, you have to register an account in our online recruitment system. Applications must follow the layout of the recommendations for the Sahlgrenska Academy for applications for teaching positions: <https://sahlgrenska.gu.se/english/co-worker/service-support/teacher-recruitment/electronic-application/general>

It is the responsibility of the applicant to ensure that the application is complete in accordance with the instructions in the job advertisement, and that it is submitted before the deadline. The selection of candidates is made on the basis of the qualifications registered in the application. Please note in particular that the following documents must accompany the application:

- PhD degree (in Swedish or English)
- A maximum of 10 selected scientific publications that the applicant want to refer to (in full text)
- Other certificates / degrees / diplomas proving the qualifications

Any documents that are not available in electronic format should be mailed in three copies to:

University of Gothenburg
The Sahlgrenska Academy
Box 400
405 30 Göteborg
SWEDEN

The reference number of the application, PAR 2018/363, should be clearly stated when mailing complementary documents.

Closing date: 2018-04-09

The University of Gothenburg promotes equal opportunities, equality and diversity.

Salary is determined on an individual basis.

Applications will be destroyed or returned (upon request) two years after the decision of employment has become final. Applications from the employed and from those who appeal the decision will not be returned.

Till bemannings- och rekryteringsföretag och till dig som är försäljare: Göteborgs universitet anlitar upphandlad annonsbyrå i samband med rekrytering av personal. Vi undanber oss vänligen men bestämt direktkontakt med bemannings- och rekryteringsföretag samt försäljare av jobbannonser.